This has been a pivotal year for KenCrest. After exploring the values, commitments, and themes in our work that will help us to move forward, we finalized a three-year strategic plan. It is not just a document, but a commitment to do our part in strengthening communities, working with a sense of obligation to others, wisely using our financial resources, and embracing the entrepreneurial spirit that started our organization over a century ago.

Throughout the strategic planning process, four guiding themes for the organization emerged:

- Advocacy and Social Responsibility
- Economic Accountability
- Innovation
- Strategic Growth

We, the KenCrest Family, have begun taking a closer look at these themes and how they apply to each and every facet of KenCrest, the services we provide, the internal goals we set for ourselves, and how we interact with each other and the broader community. This process is something we believe sets us apart from other non-profit organizations in the Human Services arena. These themes fit together in many different ways, but most importantly, they help us take a closer look, creating new answers to old questions.

I am excited to take this opportunity to share a closer look into our programs and how we are demonstrating our commitments in these key areas. This dedication will help KenCrest start a movement toward a more inclusive community, one that values everyone’s abilities and fosters opportunities for growth that we once never dreamed possible.

Sincerely,

Marian Baldini
President & CEO
In April 2017, KenCrest was selected to partner with the Institute on Disabilities at Temple University for a High Impact Innovative Quality of Life grant from the Christopher and Dana Reeve Foundation. The “Cardboard for Kids: Adaptive Design Greater Philadelphia” project trained occupational therapists, physical therapists, and speech-language pathologists working with children in the Greater Philadelphia region to cost-effectively design and fabricate custom assistive technology using 3-ply cardboard. Alex Truesdell, 2015 MacArthur Fellow and founder of the Adaptive Design Association in New York, and her team shared their design methods in trainings at the ADA center in New York and Philadelphia Woodworks in Manayunk. Lisa Hudson and Denita Newsome-Johns, training participants and physical therapists in KenCrest’s Birth-to-Three/Early Intervention Program, learned how to design and fabricate assistive devices including chairs, benches, and standers. These devices support the children in many ways, allowing them to sit upright or stand longer and perform basic activities that are sometimes taken for granted.

The adaptive design methods shared through the grant open a world of possibility by focusing on access, ability, teamwork, and community in a cost-effective manner.

Adaptive Designs
So many of the families that we support need this type of adaptive equipment so that their children can participate as fully as possible across their daily lives. Commercial equipment can be cost prohibitive, challenging to access, and often does not meet the unique needs of a child and their family,” emphasized Julie Daly, OTR/L, Clinical Coordinator for Infant/Toddler Programs.

Community Champions Awards

In March, KenCrest staff, supporters, and community leaders celebrated KenCrest’s 2017 Community Champions awards honoring individuals and organizations that have made a remarkable difference in the lives of those served by KenCrest.

The awards are not based on the size of a contribution, but on the sincerity of actions and desire to support individuals in realizing their dreams.

One of the winners, barber Justyn Gardner, generously gives his time and talents to the residents of a KenCrest community living home. What started out as just haircuts has become much more: Justyn has become a trusted friend. He provides haircuts on bi-monthly visits, enthusiastically chatting about sports, and arriving with a group favorite – donuts – in hand!

From over 40 nominations, the following 12 award recipients were chosen: Justyn Gardner, Callis-n-Callis Barber Shop; George and Liz Bieber, Shorty’s Sunflower Café; Dave Cipriano, DJ Rockin’ Dave; CBIZ; PNC; Pam Leiby, Phoenixville Hospital leadership team; John Stewart, Sea Breeze, LLC; Dr. Ana Maria Garcia, Arcadia University; George Garcia and the Animal House Band; Wayne Fritzinger, Lifesharing provider; Bob and Patty Hendel, neighbors; and Bonnie Giordano, Abington Memorial Hospital.

Staff Event 2017: The Kennys

Over 375 employees gathered in May for the Oscars-themed annual staff awards. At “The Kennys,” members of the KenCrest team dressed to impress and celebrated one another and the work of the entire agency. The PRIDE Awards, representing agency values, were presented to the following recipients:

Positive Approaches - Clifford Wrobeh of Chester County Community Living
Reaching Higher - Kristy Scribner, Bucks County Birth-to-Five program
Inclusion - Jamie Wyatt, Youth and Adult Employment
Discovery - Marcia Berner, Executive Office
Excellence - Donna Ruley, Executive Office

The recipient of the William Nolan Advocacy Award, given for outstanding advocacy efforts on behalf of the community, clients, and their families, was Rosaida Benitez, Program Coordinator of the KenCrest-South Early Learning Center.

The Siebott/Hibbard Award, given in memory of Marilyn Siebott and Rod Hibbard who championed staff support, achievement, and career development, was received by Gale Leonard, Assistant Director of Lifesharing.

The highest award, the Sister Grace Jones award, created in memory of our longest tenured Executive Director known for her dedication and service, was awarded to Tonia McNeal, Chief Financial Officer.

Rounding out the award presentations were 30 individual awards for longevity of service ranging from 30 to 40 years. Congratulations to all!
During a routine visit to her community living home, Angela Marshall, Director of Supported Living, asked Lashana, “Have you ever considered living independently?” Lashana was living self-reliantly, cooking for herself daily, and administering her own medications, making her a perfect candidate for the Supported Living services that would give her more independence and greater community access.

As the fall of 2016 wrapped up, Lashana ended her time in her community living home, and began her independent living journey. The planning team supported Lashana to put her dreams into a plan for going forward to realize her life goals, such as finding just the right apartment and living in the neighborhood of her choosing, close to her job and the places she frequents, and close to the people in her life — friends and family alike.

The staff went to work shopping with her for the items she needed for her new dwelling. Upon Lashana’s request, they helped decorate and set up a donated flat screen television to provide the final touch to her new home.

Ongoing supports will be provided for Lashana including meal planning, budgeting, shopping, and miscellaneous needs as appropriate and as they arise.

Enjoying a four day work week and receiving job coaching, Lashana looks forward to realizing her dream of having a career working with young children.

KenCrest advocates on behalf of all individuals to live fully, in the most inclusive, cost effective community-based setting, taking advantage of creative support options such as Supported Living. KenCrest welcomed seven new individuals to Supported Living in 2017 and expanded services into Chester County.

A Place to Call Her Own

Social Responsibility:
Engaging families and supporting individuals is the key to achievement & quality of life.
Over 25 years ago, Michael and Rashida met at University City High School. Both received support from KenCrest as children, with Rashida still receiving support.

High school sweethearts, they instantly became friends the moment they met, going on dates to McDonald’s or to the movies, never letting their challenges get in the way of the blossoming romance.

Supportive of each other throughout high school, the two decided their relationship was more than just a friendship when they attended the high school prom. Maybe it was the music, maybe the dancing, that led Rashida and Mike to start dating and begin their journey together that night.

After completing high school, their focus turned to employment. Rashida has devoted the past 18 years to her sales associate and fundraising career at Acme Markets, Inc. in Bala Cynwyd while Michael has worked as a chef in Germantown. Both have become fixtures at their places of employment as well as in their local community. Rashida was a recent recipient of a Brighter Futures Award after raising thousands of dollars for various charities over the years. Together they enjoy travelling to their favorite destination, Atlantic City, and attending dances at Carousel House, dining out, and going to the movies.

Rashida’s mother Gloria says, “Michael has become an important part of our family, and knowing him since he was 17, he is as much our son as Rashida is our daughter.” Rashida and Mike have wanted to be married since graduating high school. Despite the hesitation of some, they knew they could make it on their own through their love for each other and the support of their families, living together and having an everyday life.

Finally, in the 27th year of their love story, with the blessings of their families, Rashida and Mike married on a beautiful spring day in May at the Bala Golf Club in Philadelphia. KenCrest Employment Consultant Monique Thomas, who has worked with Rashida for 13 years, provided the flowers for the day as a gift to the couple.

Rashida and Mike are an inspiration and a true testament that love conquers all!
Clayton (pictured top right) enjoys his full time position with Xanitos, working the second shift. He lives in his own apartment, has his driver’s license, and owns a car.

However, things were not always this positive, and neither Clayton nor his parents had high expectations for the future. Clayton’s days consisted of marathon video game playing and not much else before he participated in Project Search through KenCrest.

Once he entered the “Project Search program at Phoenixville Hospital, Clayton blossomed. He was a great candidate from the beginning, and enjoyed the active, physical nature of his job training position. Steve Petrovich, Director of Environmental Services, said, “We knew we wanted to hire him before he was done with the training. You can’t go wrong with Clayton. He does a fine job!”

Not only did Clayton gain valuable job-specific skills through his time at Project Search, he also learned important life skills, like developing and managing a budget.

“I’m living proof that you can be successful. I don’t know where I’d be if I didn’t have Project Search; I guess I would be living on my parent’s couch and who knows what. I don’t know where I’d be right now,” shared Clayton, a KenCrest Project Search graduate.

Graduating another nine individuals from the Project Search program at Phoenixville Hospital, KenCrest was privileged to additionally participate in the groundbreaking, and one of the first “Big Pharma” Project Search programs in the country beginning in the Fall of 2017, with 9 participants, through a partnership with GlaxoSmithKline, Montgomery County Intermedia Unit, Office of Vocational Rehabilitation (OVR), and the Montgomery County Office of Developmental Disabilities.

Andy and Bobby’s Story

Andy dreamed of moving to a more independent living arrangement than his community living home in Eastern Montgomery County offered. At the same time, Bobby, a former Direct Service professional (DSP) at Andy’s community living home, was having dreams of his own — dreams of retirement. He was thinking about where the path would lead after he left his career of 21 years.

Vivian Reese, Director of Eastern Montgomery County Residential Services, had taken note of the remarkable bond between the two men over the years, and knew of their plans and dreams for the future. The two were great together, and had become an important part of one another’s lives. They already considered each other family. Vivian suggested a creative and exciting option neither had previously considered – KenCrest Lifesharing. After careful consideration, Andy and Bobby decided that Lifesharing was a great fit and would provide a host of wanted and needed benefits to them both. In the spring of 2017, the two officially called themselves family, living under the same roof!

Other big changes came for Andy as well this past year, as he moved from sheltered workshop employment to a community based position at Millers Ale House in Willow Grove, PA.

Lifesharing is a creative living arrangement where a family of either biologically or non-biologically related individuals agree to live together, under one roof as a family. Lifesharing families provide a more family-like and cost-effective living arrangement than other existing community based living options.

Economic Accountability: Making the best use of resources by delivering the right supports that increase independence

Serving individuals of all ages is KenCrest’s privilege. With local service locations including six Early Learning Centers and more than 200 community living homes, our facilities require a variety of renovations and upgrades on an ongoing basis. With a grand total of over 400 locations in three states, creative financing options are a must, and alternative funding streams and methods are constantly explored.

Historically, a large part of funding for these projects has been supplied by grants, with government funds traditionally covering renovations for our HUD (Department of Housing & Urban Development) homes. In 2017, the Philadelphia Child Care Facilities Fund provided a grant of $25,000 to renovate our South Center’s playground as well as a grant for $24,000 for classroom renovations at the Northeast Center. The Fund for Quality provided a $300,000 grant to renovate our West Center, enabling the Center to offer new Early Head Start services, reaching more families in the community. Grants totaling $25,000 from The McLean Contributionship and $5,000 awarded by The Charter Foundation helped make accessibility renovations to community homes housing aging adults with disabilities.

KenCrest acknowledges the generosity of the dozens of public and private grant makers for their generosity that affords the enrichment of our programs and rehabilitation of our facilities.
For KenCrest, strategic growth is about getting better at what we do — supporting individuals to succeed and have a better quality of life in a cost effective way — rather than traditional strategic growth, which involves growing bigger and spreading out geographically. However, we are finding that spreading out and growing bigger seems to be a natural outcome of getting better at what we do.

For example, a number of adult individuals who we support in our community living homes began participating in a pilot program called My25. A person-centered budget and dietary program, My25 is designed to assist individuals with healthy food choices, budgeting and meal planning. Use of My25 results in reduced labor needs and food expenses, increased diet quality, and overall improvement in health and well-being. After improving the quality of life of current program participants, future plans include considering program expansion and the possibility of trying it with some of the other groups we support.

Another example is that of one young man we support who had an opportunity to try a new technology — the Avail app is designed to allow any user to program in reminder and step-by-step instructions. The app has supported CB (pictured in all photos) to effectively complete the steps needed to use public transportation to get to classes at a local university. His independence and confidence have soared. KenCrest will expand the use of this app for the individuals we serve, and plans to make this available to others.

We look forward to even greater results from these, and the other programs we have begun to pilot. While each has started with the goal of improving the quality of life of those individuals and their families we support, we are observing and expect that more traditional strategic growth, such as geographic expansion and increase in program reach and size, will be value-added benefits to the agency.

KenCrest Strategic Growth: is a natural consequence of serving individuals well.

Mission Statement

KenCrest supports community development by exploring possibilities, mobilizing resources and empowering dreams.
In the early 20th century, KenCrest friend and board member Mrs. William P.M. Braun established the RiverCrest “Garden of Sweet Memories,” in which tributes and memorials were recorded for loved ones. Our KenCrest Golden Book continues this tradition: the names of any individuals for which honorary or memorial gifts are given are recorded in calligraphy in an impressive leather-bound volume. The names of the following individuals have been added in the past year to the Golden Book.
